COURT BID TO PROTECT SITES FROM ILLEGAL ENCAMPMENTS

Travellers breaching order would face jail

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsexsexnews.co.uk

TRAVELLERS could be banned from setting up illegal camps in Harlow as authorities take the fight to the High Court.

Since October 2013, Harlow Council and Essex County Council have moved travellers from 110 illegal encampments in the town.

Court papers have now been served on the two current illegal camps remaining in Coldharbour Road and Horsecroft Road as well as 454 other "parcels of land". A hearing for an interim injunction will take place on Tuesday (March 3).

Vulnerable

The court order, if granted, would protect 320 "vulnerable" sites including areas used as illegal encampments in the past, highway verges, schools and private land. Anyone breaching the injunction could be fined or imprisoned for contempt of court.

Labour-run Harlow Council applied for the order alongside Conservative-led Essex County Council, which said the two authorities had put "months of planning" into the legal process.

Harlow Council leader Jon Clemmner said: "I am very pleased that we are now at this point with both councils joining forces in seeking a town-wide injunction to respond to residents' concerns."

Opposition leader Andrew Johnson added: "Harlow Conservatives have for more than a year been pushing Harlow Council to use every legal avenue at their disposal, something they have repeatedly failed to do. So it's very welcome that they are finally taking some legal action."

The annual bill for tackling illegal encampments in the town, including the cost of cleaning vacated sites, has reached £70,000.

Both councils said they would not comment further on the injunction application until after the High Court hearing, but said they could "fully understand the frustration persistent unauthorised encampments have caused the community".

Harlow MP Robert Halfon, who raised the issue in the House of Commons and publicly criticised the Chief Constable of Essex Police for his handling of the situation, said: "I hugely welcome this move by both councils."

"Things are moving forward following my meeting with the Chief Constable last week, both in terms of police measures and legal action."

"I hope that this goes to ending this siege of Harlow by illegal encampments once and for all."

Strengthening

But Labour parliamentary hopeful Suzy Stride accused Mr Halfon of "doing a lot of talking but not achieving anything" and failing to support Harlow Council.

She said: "The law needs strengthening on this issue and I will continue to call for the current Government to do that. With Harlow Council doing everything within its power to address this issue, it's time that the Government took its own role in this matter seriously."

Last year, public health notices were served on 24 travellers amid concerns over human waste and rubbish at an illegal camp on the former Passmore School site.

NO CATS ON CATWALK: Fern Patterson with Connie

Fern and Connie's styles are in sync

FASHION-conscious dog owner Fern Patterson and her canine companion Connie were the stars of the dogwalk at St Clare Hospice's Winter Walkies fundraiser.

Connie, a Pomeranian and Chihuahua cross, won the title of best-dressed dog with her eye-catching animal print outfit.

More than 100 people took part in Sunday's countryside stroll which is expected to have raised £7,000 for the hospice.

Shoppers show a flair for art with mosaic creations

Work to be displayed in stairwell at Harvey

William Mata
william.mata@hertssexnews.co.uk

SHOPPERS visiting the Harvey Centre in Harlow on Saturday were able to take a break from bargain hunting and show off their artistic flair by helping to create three mosaics.

Freelance artist Sarah Bracey, 48, led the workshop which attracted 85 people who helped bring to life the mosaics which will now go on display in the shopping centre stairway.

Featuring two moths and a butterfly, they represent Harlow's connections to nature and were created using hand drawings, card and imagery.

"Moths and butterflies are a huge part of Harlow's history, as reflected in the names of pubs such as The Garden Tiger and The Essex Skipper, which were built as part of the new town," said Miss Bracey.

"The artwork will also reflect Harlow's contrast of green spaces, urban environment and numerous roundabouts."

Miss Bracey, who has lived in the town all her life, said she was pleased by the response to the workshop.

"It was a really good turnout and a lot of people really enjoyed it, saying it was something they wished they could do more of," she said.

"People came and went as they liked and it was busy the whole time. Whole families had a really good and positive experience, which made it a great time out for all."

The mosaics will be erected in the spring and will be a permanent fixture on the staircase wall of the shopping centre.

Community messaging a key weapon to fight crime

POLICE in Harlow are reminding residents of a new messaging system that gives the latest information about crime and community safety.

Essex Community Messaging gives everyone who signs up the chance to receive crime notifications and crime prevention advice via email, text or voice message from Essex Police officers, Essex Watch liaison officers and other partners including Neighbourhood Watch.

Free of charge and specifically designed for Essex, the system is jointly funded by Essex Police and Crime Commissioner Nick Alston and money seized from criminals under the Proceeds of Crime Act.

Alert

It gives residents the option to select the information they want to receive including issues they might have a particular interest in and can be used to alert them to crime trends where they live, ask for help in the search for missing people and encourage them and their neighbours to report suspicious activity.

Mr Alston said ECM would get important crime and crime prevention information out to communities faster than ever before.

"It will also improve the two-way flow of information about community safety between Essex Police, neighbourhood and other watch groups and the people of Essex," he added.

"We need to help communities join Essex Police in the fight against crime."

"Whether it's through reporting suspicious behaviour or learning about simple measures to take to prevent crime, ECM will provide a crucial new channel for keeping our communities safe."

In brief

Police investigating spate of cat deaths

POLICE are investigating the possibility that four cats which had to be put to sleep in Harlow may have been poisoned with anti-freeze.

The deaths occurred between June 1, 2014 and February 2 this year in the area of Red Lion Crescent.

It is thought the cats had eaten something, possibly anti-freeze, which resulted in them falling ill and eventually being put down by vets.

Police have launched an investigation into the deaths and are working closely with the RSPCA.

They are also advising pet owners to keep a close eye on their animals and take them to a vet immediately should they have any concerns over their health.

Anyone with any information is asked to contact PC Donna Money at Harlow police station on 101 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Named and shamed

A HARLOW firm has been included on a Government list of 70 companies which failed to pay workers the minimum wage.

According to the 'name and shame' list, Matrix Electrical Engineering Ltd based in Horsecroft Place neglected to pay £286.60 to a worker.

Business minister Jo Swinson said paying less than the minimum wage was illegal, immoral and unacceptable.

"Naming and shaming gives a clear warning to employers who ignore the rules that they will face reputational consequences as well as financial penalties of up to £20,000 if they don't pay the minimum wage," she said.

Chief exec resigns

THE chief executive of Essex County Council is quitting her post to take up a new job with audit, tax and advisory services company KPMG.

Joanna Killian has held the post of CEO at County Hall since September 2006. During the past four years she reduced operating costs by £450m.

"Public services are facing huge challenges and will continue to do so," she said. "I know that I am leaving Essex in good hands and in good shape to face those challenges in the future."

Graham saddles up for USA trek

Fundraising champion prepares for new challenge

William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

CHAMPION fundraiser Graham Ellis is preparing for his most daunting challenge yet as he prepares to cycle nearly 3,000 miles across the USA for an Alzheimer's charity.

Graham, 65, of Elmbridge, Old Harlow, has completed a charity adventure every year since 1981.

Next Saturday (March 7) he will set from San Diego on the west coast of America and pedal 2,857 miles, arriving on the edge of the Atlantic Ocean in Florida 51 days later.

"I thought it was the right time to do a big challenge," said Graham, who last year was awarded a British Empire Medal in recognition of his fundraising efforts.

"There will be around 40 of us from all over the world but I will be the only man from the UK on the trip.

"I have been training around 60 or 70 miles every weekend since before Christmas. I will need to average around 64 miles a day and on one day I will cycle 88 miles."

He added: "We will be camping in tents by the side of the road for most of the way, but there is a luxury hotel to look forward to at the end."

As a part-time chartered surveyor, Graham has arranged an extended period of leave to complete the trip.

He expects the repetitive aspect of the ride to create a greater challenge than anything he has experienced before, but his personal motivation to complete the ride is to raise £5,000 for the Alzheimer's Society following the death of his father from the illness.

"I am taking on the challenge in memory of my father, who died as a result of contracting Alzheimer's which reduced him in a very short space of time from an outgoing, generous and loving man into someone, who in the later stages of his life couldn't even recognise members of his own family."

"It's a long, long way, to cycle and I will get very saddle sore. The repetition of it will be a killer but I will be spurred on by the thought of the money I will be raising for this worthy cause."

"I am apprehensive but excited, especially when we dip our wheels into the Pacific to officially begin the cycle ride."

You can track Graham's progress and sponsor him by visiting www.justgiving.com/Graham-Ellis5.

£2.5m to fund state-of-the-art college facility

Million-pound injection will pay for re-development of engineering dept

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsessexnews.co.uk

HARLOW College has been given a £2.5m cash injection to finance a state-of-the-art advanced manufacturing and engineering centre.

The project, which involves replacing existing buildings with more than 2,000 metres squared of new engineering facilities, will be funded by the South East Local Enterprise Partnership.

The new facilities will help the college in Velizy Avenue develop aspiring young engineers and operations/maintenance engineers by providing hands-on experience and cutting-edge technical skills.

The new centre will also provide upskilling, reskilling and professional development for people already in employment.

Harlow College is one of five further education establishments across the south east to succeed in a bid to the SE LEP Skills Capital Fund, which is designed to reduce skills shortages, support growth industries and provide young people to access vocational skills and training.

SE LEP chairman Peter Jones said: "Improving skills is a key priority for us and our partners. I'm delighted to see colleges are focusing on the skills needs of business and their communities and, in the case of Harlow, on supporting science, technology and engineering companies."

College principal Karen Spencer said: "Harlow College is committed to developing young people and adults to be the engineers of the future."

"Engineering is a vital part of the local enterprise plan for generating wealth, opportunity and economic growth."

"This new facility will inspire more people to study and develop these essential skills for the future."

Cllr Tony Durcan, deputy leader of Harlow Council and portfolio holder for regeneration, said: "Harlow has historically been at the cutting edge of technology and engineering with the birth of fibre optics taking place here."

"With the improvements to facilities that this funding will bring to the college, and the Enterprise Zone currently under development, it's really exciting to think about what other pioneering advancements could be made in Harlow in years to come."

It is expected the centre will be in use from September next year.

PARTY TIME: Suzy Stride, centre, at the Harlow Chinese Centre

Chinese celebrate new year

CONSERVATIVE and Labour election rivals Robert Halfon and Suzy Stride set aside their political differences when they joined Harlow's Chinese community to celebrate the start of the Year of the Sheep.

The celebrations at the Harlow Chinese Centre in Commons Road on Sunday included a traditional lion dance, fireworks, performances of Chinese dancing and cuisine, kung fu and tai chi.

Mr Halfon said: "I am proud that Harlow has the biggest Chinese community centre outside of any major city in UK, providing a club for residents, a school for young children and a venue for host of other activities."

Miss Stride added:

ONE FOR THE ALBUM: Andy Ho and Dr Philip Li with Robert Halfon and David Cameron at the New Year celebrations in Downing Street

"It was an honour to attend the celebrations. The festivities were great fun and provided a showcase for real talent in our community."

"Harlow's vibrant Chinese community is a source of great pride, this centre does huge amounts to invest in the education and development of many young and old people in the town."

On Monday two members of the Chinese community, Andy Ho and Dr Philip Li, met Prime Minister David Cameron when they accompanied Mr Halfon to a New Year celebration at 10 Downing Street.

Mr Ho and Dr Li were invited in recognition of their contribution to the Harlow community.

Views sought to shape NHS services which tackle obesity

HEALTH chiefs are asking for feedback on the future provision of weight management services in Harlow.

Services are currently provided in four tiers, ranging from low-level support such as reinforcing healthy eating messages through major intervention including bariatric surgery.

The West Essex Clinical Commissioning Group - which plans and buys health and care services for Harlow, Epping Forest and Uttlesford - is one of seven in the county working together to seek views on the future of Tier 3 services before the current contract approaches its end date.

Support

Tier 3 involves health and care professionals providing individuals with intensive support in their community with the aim of helping them to reduce their weight and decrease the likelihood of needing surgery.

Epping Forest GP and West Essex CCG clinical director Dr Christine Moss said: "We'd like to know how local people think the NHS in Essex should approach any updates to local weight management services."

"Therefore we encourage people with and without experience of this service to take this opportunity to shape its future."

The deadline for contributions is March 6. To take part visit www.westsexccg.nhs.uk/Have-your-say/questionnaires.html.

The 'silent killer' that lay dormant for over 40 years

Terminally ill woman's asbestos warning

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A GRANDMOTHER suffering from terminal cancer caused by breathing in asbestos dust is using her plight to warn others about what she calls a "silent killer".

Annette Turnbull, 63, of Felmongers, Harlow, has only a few months to live.

She was diagnosed with Mesothelioma, an aggressive form of cancer that attacks the lungs and their lining, in July last year around the same time her husband died of a different type of the disease.

Mrs Turnbull suspects that it was caused by breathing in toxic dust particles at the printing factor where she worked 40 years ago.

Asbestos was used as insulating material in many buildings during the construction of the new town back in the 1950s and Mrs Turnbull is urging people to get their homes checked.

"It was a shock," she said. "It was something that has laid dormant for such a long time but it has now reared its ugly head 40 years later."

"It started off when I was breathing rapidly and I thought I had anxiety, but when I went to see a doctor

I was told I had Mesothelioma.

"It's a silent killer and there is no cure. I am not quite on my last legs yet but it is weakening my body and I'm having to use a walking frame to get around the house."

"I used to love dancing and could go all night, but now I can't even manage half a dance. I'm only in my 60s and haven't been able to enjoy my retirement."

Mrs Turnbull relies upon St Clare Hospice for medical support and her church for spiritual strength and guidance.

She has been left visibly scarred by the cancer, which has caused a tumour to swell from her left lung into her back.

Although the diagnosis has left her upset and depressed, she has accepted her own fate and now has a greater worry for one of her two daughters.

"She has had five checks for asbestos and in the last one they found some in a cupboard" she said. "I'm concerned for my daughter and three grandchildren. At the moment she is waiting for something to be done but I'm worried."

"Removing asbestos is expensive and difficult and everyone should be aware of how deadly it is. I want to raise awareness of this issue."

Probe into handling of child abuse cases to be extended

AN investigation into allegations that Essex Police mishandled child sex abuse cases is to be extended after more incidents were reported.

Earlier this month it was revealed the Independent Police Complaints Commission was managing an investigation into a number of officers based within the constabulary's North Child Abuse Investigations Team.

Since November the IPCC has received referrals from Essex Police relating to the handling of 28 child abuse investigations which were reported to the force between 2011 and 2014, including a number of allegations of historic abuse.

The IPCC is already undertaking two other investigations into the conduct of five officers from the north CAIT following referrals from Essex Police in August and October 2014.

A spokeswoman for the watchdog said this week: "Since the announcement earlier this month we have received a further eight referrals from Essex Police related to the handling of child abuse investigations by their North Child Abuse Investigations Team.

"These referrals are currently being assessed by our assessment unit."

Essex Police and Crime Commissioner Nick Alston admitted: "As the review into the quality of child abuse investigations instigated by Essex Police progresses, regrettably I do not find it surprising that it has identified further cases of concern and fresh referrals to the Independent Police Complaints Commission."

"I would stress that the number of cases being investigated independently or under the management of the IPCC still remains a small proportion of the total number of such cases investigated by Essex Police each year."

He added he was convinced the force was making real efforts to identify and resolve problems related to the quality of child abuse investigations.

Guest speakers lined up for police museum talks

THE editor of the Sherlock Holmes Society of London's monthly newsletter and a former scene of crime officer are among the guest speakers in a season of talks at Essex Police Museum.

Roger Johnson will take a look at well-known historical murder cases and expose where criminals had unsuccessfully tried to dispose of the corpses in his talk on Thursday, March 5.

Subsequent speakers will talk about forensic and art photography, the work of the cold case team and the haunted police stations of Essex.

Museum curator Becky Wash said: "Our talks programme enables us to tell more about the history of policing and crime and punishment than we could possibly do with just exhibits."

Tickets cost £3 per person and include tea/coffee and biscuits. As spaces are limited booking is advised; contact Becky on (01245) 457150 or email museum@essex.pnn.police.uk.

The museum is based at Essex Police headquarters in Chelmsford.

Too easy to blame others

SIR The greatest message to all of us from the commemoration of the 70th anniversary of the liberation of the Auschwitz concentration camp from the Holocaust should be one of extreme caution.

It is all too easy to fall into the trap of blaming groups of people for our troubles.

Hate and isolation of groups in our society can produce violence
– remember that five million Gypsies, Catholics, communists, people with disabilities and Jehovah's Witnesses were ruthlessly exterminated along with six million Jews in the Nazi concentration camps.

Our present day preoccupation with Ukip and its policies on immigration as its main platform is dangerous and should be strongly challenged.
The constant campaign kept up recently against the travellers in Harlow should be questioned and challenged.

What we must remember is that the powers-that-be throughout history have welcomed and encouraged the distraction of blaming a group of people for all the ills of society.
So we build up our anger towards these groups when in reality we should be showing our anger and campaigning on key questions that affect all our lives so deeply.

We should surely be focusing on issues like tax havens for multi-nationals, bankers' bonuses, privatisation of the NHS, the bedroom tax, people with disabilities losing benefits and jobs, foodbanks, the growth in the number of children in poverty and the lack of affordable housing.

These issues should be raised and campaigned on and we should support those political parties that represent our best interests in trying to create a fairer and more just society for us all.

Finally, we were extremely moved to hear a Holocaust survivor speaking at Auschwitz.
He concluded his emotional speech by saying his greatest hope for his children and grandchildren was for a pluralist society and human rights for all people.

Police failure to uphold law

SIR Concerns surrounding the so-called traveller caravan sites can really be thought of as due to two things: the idea that equality before the law no longer applies to certain groups and the increasing belief that the legal establishment, in particular the police, does not share the values of the majority of the population they are paid to serve.

We all know how quick the authorities are to prosecute for heinous crimes like not paying the BBC license fee, parking at periods you are not supposed to, building an extension on your property without permission or taking your children on holiday during the school term. No doubt they fear anarchy if we start putting non-recycling in recycling bins.

But what of the travelling community? Many of us are suspicious that the police, steeped in sociobabble as is the current fashion, are failing to enforce the law in an even-handed manner and as they would if they were dealing with any other group. This is dangerous as it undermines confidence in them.

The fact that groups associated with the Labour Party seem to support the unauthorised camps really shows how influential the Play
School lefties are in the party.

Ukip Harlow expects the police and courts to deal with illegal activity in an even-handed way, not exempting some sections of our community from laws they do not wish to obey. We also expect social workers to visit the sites and report on the welfare of the children there and whether they are being educated as the law requires.

The sites are illegal and they should be cleared and the people on them dealt with in the same manner as everyone else who decided to live as they wished with no regard to laws or the welfare and quality of life of the local community.

SIR A group of travellers set up an illegal encampment outside my place of work. They left excrement in the doorway, ripped signs of the wall and left rubbish all over the place.

The police approached us and,
whilst the travellers looked on, asked us if they were causing a

The police don't want to deal with the problem.

Ukip failed spelling test

SIR I am puzzled by Nigel Farage's recent statement that he would make all 130,000 foreign health workers in the UK retake language tests, especially as the foreign NHS worker I live with has a rather good standard of spoken and written English.

Given Mr Farage's statement, I naturally assumed that Ukip representatives were proficient in English but a recent incident made me wonder. On the eve of polling in the Mark Hall by-election I came across a crumpled Ukip leaflet on the pavement in Glebelands. The leaflet's heading of 'Mark Hall By Election Special' caught my eye as I noticed the hyphen was missing from by-election.

Having obtained a torch to read the back page of the leaflet due to the poor contrast of black text on purple background, I discovered two spelling errors in the final sentence. 'Desperate' was spelt as 'desparate' and 'distorting' as 'destorting'. One may have forgiven them if the first error had not been typed in capital letters, set in bold type and underlined.

To add to this spelling and design nightmare I found a numeracy error on the front page. In the third paragraph Ukip candidate Mark Gough says he "moved to Glebelands before my first birthday in 1971 and still here 42 years later". So, being a helpful chap I have retrieved a 2013 calendar from my loft for Mr Gough.

Perhaps it would be wise if Mr Farage found some money for English and, in the case of Ukip's Harlow branch, basic numeracy and leaflet design courses before making offensive remarks about foreign health workers.

Their hypocrisy, lack of literacy and attention to detail may well have been part of their downfall in Mark Hall, but I suspect that voters had realised that Ukip is just another party of the bosses.

Soundbite is too simplistic

SIR Like James Gamble, I have always found Robert Halfon very pleasant in person (Letters, February 12). I cannot say the same about his simplistic and offensive policies with their racist overtones.

For example, English votes for English laws sounds so obviously fair and reasonable, but look a little closer. Like most of his soundbites, it does not stand up to detailed analysis.

First, one of the reasons for the rise of Scottish nationalism (which, as an Anglo-Scot I do not support) is precisely the belief that Scotland will never get a fair deal from a Westminster dominated by English MPs. How much more so if their MPs are barred from playing a full part in the governance of the UK?

Then there is the difficulty in deciding exactly which issues do only affect England, especially remembering that Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland have different levels of devolution. Given the domination of England in the Union's economy, the smaller countries do need to have representation at all levels to protect their interests. Major issues such as budgets, taxation and economic policy generally do concern all the constituent parts of the Union, even where some powers have been devolved.

There would be major constitutional issues in the creation of a two-tier system of MPs – first-class English and second-class Scots, Welsh and Irish. A further complication would be the position of the unelected, overblown House of Lords whose members do not have geographical affiliations. How would their eligibility to vote be determined?

In fact there are many anomalies in the (unwritten) British constitution, which need attention. The Labour Party has proposed a comprehensive constitutional commission, although it has not yet worked out the full details. However, that is surely the way to go, not rush into half-baked, knee-jerk responses to one particular set of circumstances.

Finally, it seems very strange that the Tory party, which used to be the Conservative and Unionist Party and which made such a great play about the need for unity in the Scottish referendum campaign, should be promoting a policy that can only push Scotland even further in the direction of independence.

NHS delivered a great service

SIR I read the letter from James Galvin on the subject of the abuse that staff at PAH experience from some members of the public (Letters, February 2). I also note that many letters recently published about the NHS have a political lean to them.

My letter is not political at all and comes from the heart of an ordinary citizen who has something nice to say about the staff at PAH.

My father recently passed away after spending eight days in the care on the ICU. The care he received was first class. The staff, who were often under pressure, were extremely professional but also kind and compassionate and treated him with the utmost respect.

It has given his family great comfort that he passed away not only pain-free but with extreme dignity. We could not have asked for more than that.

My Dad paid into the system all of his life and he was not let down at the end of it. So thank you to the NHS for providing such a great service when it mattered.

Growth in jobs is welcome news

SIR May I first congratulate Danny Purton on his election success in the Mark Hall by-election. Apart from his misjudged support for West Ham United I am confident he will prove a very effective councillor, not least because of his work experience which has armed him with a healthy scepticism in respect of officers' advice.

On a less positive note, I am appalled that Cllr Emma Toal should be so blazé about the significant reduction in Harlow's unemployment figures.

Having been made redundant myself I can assure her that being unemployed (with all its attendant negative feelings) is no fun. There was a time when a so-called compassionate Labour politician would have been pleased that the economy was growing and that there were more jobs.

Labour argue that the thousands of new jobs are not "real" jobs. I work part-time and I find such comments insulting. Most new jobs are full-time and are not zero-contract based; this has been independently verified.

As for criticism of our excellent MP, it is a matter of public record that Robert Halfon has worked incredibly hard to bring jobs back to Harlow. He campaigned for two years for a new university technical school, promoted an annual jobs fair and championed apprenticeships, including having the first full-time apprentice in his office. The number of jobs in Harlow is growing and for that we should be relieved and pleased.

I understand that Cllr Toal would like to see the election of a Labour government but that is no excuse for belittling those of us who are back in work or for questioning the value of those new jobs.

With the election just three months off I would like to think that we all could make more of an effort to be honest with voters.

Schools survey for parents

SIR As Ofsted's newly appointed regional director for the east of England, I wanted to make parents in Harlow aware of Parent View, an online survey that's easy to use, for any parent who wants to tell us about how their child's school is doing.

It can be used to tell us what you think about your child's school – whether it's doing a great job or if you have any concerns.

Parent View lets you see what other parents think of any school in England, a useful source of information to make an informed choice about the best school for your child. It also provides valuable information to help headteachers and governors improve their school.

Parent View can be accessed on the Ofsted website at any time of the year, not just when a school is being inspected.

There are good and bad cyclists

SIR It was interesting to read the article in the national press about Dave Sherry who snares bad drivers with his cycle cameras. As a driver and resident in Harlow, I agree there are some abysmal motorists on our local roads but there are also some ignorant cyclists too.

My pet hate is drivers who do not indicate at junctions and roundabouts and cyclists with no lights or hi-viz clothing.

Also, why do cyclists not use the cycle tracks which the council has put in at great expense for all town taxpayers? There is extensive coverage across the town for cyclists but they seem to prefer putting themselves at risk by using the carriageways.

I think I have actually driven past Mr Sherry on some occasions and he is surely putting his safety at risk by cycling along the road instead of using the cycle track where available.

Residents' views totally ignored

SIR I am writing regarding the Gilden Way development for which the go-ahead for phase one has been given.

We as residents have been asked to give our comments. Does this really make a difference as it has already gone through? All the campaigns and marches made no impact on this decision.

What I don't understand is why a traffic survey which was done to establish if it was viable and safe was carried out during the summer holidays. And would the plans have been passe if they had taken onto account the proposed slip road passing through Gilden Way?

The residents of this development will be putting their lives in their hands every time they want to get out onto this road. It will be a total gridlock which will also bring the rest of Harlow to a standstill.

Clearly it doesn't matter whether we have our say or not as we are totally ignored. We care about how much traffic is polluting our roads and how dangerous it will be for pedestrians trying to cross this road for school as well as the environmental impact it will have.

I and many more feel totally let down by the council for allowing this to go ahead.

Protection from state oppression

SIR Human rights legislation gives individual and groups protection from harm directed at them by the State or oppression by a majority.

The European legislation and court owe much to the involvement of our legal system. It must not be thrown away just to save government embarrassment because it can't get its own way, no matter how unpleasant the individual or group attacked are. It is our only protection against dictatorial governments.

I am surprised that Robert Halfon supports our scrapping of the Human Rights Act.

He is a good man but seems to be trying to buy his seat via press and postal advertising rather than rely on his justly deserved good reputation.

Young dancers help to launch innovative exhibition

STUDENTS from Harlow-based performing arts school Makin' Steps helped launch a new exhibition at the Gibberd Gallery on Friday.

The teenagers performed two numbers inspired by one of the town's sculptures on the opening night of the exhibition entitled

Light, Art, Action!

The exhibition, which runs until March 28, will feature live dance performances inspired by the sculpture collection as well as commissioned music pieces and dance projections created by Hip Hop Pop and the Karen Chapman School of Dancing.

The walls of the gallery in the Civic Centre have been used as a canvas for art and design students at Harlow College to create a mural depicting all styles of dance.

The first night also marked the official opening of the dedicated children's gallery called the The Glass Hideaway.

Ambulance trust seeks 200 more recruits to train as paramedics

A DRIVE to recruit more student paramedics has been launched by the region's ambulance service, ambulance service.

The East of England Ambulance Trust, which covers Essex and five other counties, has already taken on more than 400 student paramedics during the past 12 months but is now scouting for more people to start a new career in the service.

West Essex is one of three key areas it is targeting to boost numbers.

Contracts have already been offered to about 200 people and the aim is to recruit a further 200.

EAST chief executive Anthony Marsh said: "We have the most ambitious paramedic recruitment campaign in the country."

"Not only have we already recruited more than 400 student paramedics, we are going to replicate that again this year. Taking on more will help us to continue to improve the caring service we give to patients."

Fulfilling

Consultant paramedic Marcus Bailey, who leads the training and development programme, said: "It's hard work but it's a very fulfilling role because you can make a difference to a person's life in just a few moments."

"We want caring, compassionate people with a commitment to patient care, so we would really encourage them to apply now."

Student paramedics complete eight weeks in the classroom and three weeks of blue-light driver training before they are assigned frontline duties. They then receive a further three weeks of classroom-based training during their first nine months as students.

During the following 12-18 months their studies involve a mix of classroom and practical work delivered through either the University of East Anglia or Anglia Ruskin University.

To apply to become a student paramedic, visit www.eastamb.nhs.uk/working-for-us/student-paramedic-programme.htm which includes videos on classroom training and a brochure with frequently asked questions.

A series of open evening events will be held at Melbourn in South Cambs, on March 3, 4 and 5 from 5.45-8pm for prospective applicants to learn more about the role of paramedics.

Priest accused of sexually assaulting teenage boys

Court Reporter

star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A PRIEST who served in Harlow during the 1990s has denied sexually abusing teenage boys and taking indecent photographs of children.

Father Tony McSweeney, who was priest of the Holy Cross & St Luke's parish between 1993 and 1997, was arrested in February 2013 by officers from the Metropolitan Police.

The 68-year-old clergyman was once part-time chaplain at Norwich FC and officiated at the wedding of world heavyweight boxing champion Frank Bruno in 1990.

But Southwark Crown Court was told he had a sexual interest in young boys before he entered the priesthood and had collected "vile" images of children over a period of many years

McSweeney was originally charged along with former children's home manager John Stingemore, who was found dead weeks before the trial was due to start.

Sarah Plaschkes, prosecuting, told the court: "We say that, over the decades and on various occasions, he [McSweeney] has had indecent images of teenage boys."

"Between 1979 and 1981 he actually took indecent photographs of a teenage boy. Then, in 1998, his cleaner found a video with indecent images in his home."

"When he was arrested in 2013, indecent images were found on his laptop. But his interest has not just been looking at such images; between 1979 and 1981 the prosecution say he sexually abused teenage boys."

The court heard that in 1980 McSweeney used his long-term friendship with Stingemore to secure access to vulnerable boys in care.

"That gave this defendant the opportunity to sexually abuse teenage boys who were in care and away from their families," said Ms Plaschkes.

"It is our case that this defendant sexually abused three boys at that children's home in Hounslow."

The prosecution gave details of an incident in 1976 when, while involved in the Scout movement, McSweeney was caught watching a 15-year-old boy taking a shower in a communal block during a week-long residential event at the Gilwell Park Scout Retreat.

The jury was also told about incidents at the children's home where McSweeney and Stingemore watched a teenage showering on a number of occasions. In the most serious incident another boy found himself alone with McSweeney who took photos of him after abusing him in a bedroom.

It was only when the Jimmy Savile scandal hit the headlines that he broke his silence about the abuse and reported it to police.

McSweeney was also alleged to have abused a young boy at the home of Stingemore in Bexhill-on-Sea.

When McSweeney was arrested he denied the allegations, telling police officers: "At no time have I done any of those things. I am astonished."

McSweeney, who now lives in West Sussex, denies four charges of indecent assault, one of taking an indecent photograph of a child and three of making indecent images of children.

The case continues.

EASTERN DELIGHTS: For students from Mark Hall and Kingsmoor academies

First phrases in Mandarin

IN celebration of the Chinese New Year, pupils from two schools in Harlow took part in their first ever lessons in Mandarin.

Students from Mark Hall Academy, in First Avenue, and Kingsmoor Academy, in Ployters Road, have started to learn the language, which is spoken by 1.2bn people. The lessons were partly to coincide with the start of the Year of the Sheep and also as part of the commitment by both schools to raise standards in modern foreign languages.

Led by language school Little Dragons, they were given basic lessons in Mandarin and also learned other Chinese activities such as dances, songs, mask-making and tai chi.

Lisa Crausby, senior improvement director at Academy Transformation Trust, said: "For me, this is a wonderful venture for pupils across our family of academies and it is fantastic to see them all working together."

Noodles and pancakes at nursery

TODDLERS at a Harlow preschool tucked into pancakes and noodles when they celebrated two separate events.

On Shrove Tuesday the children at Kiddi Caru Nursery, in Kiln Lane, were helped by staff to create traditional pancakes which they then ate.

And to mark the start of the Chinese new year they made Chinese lanterns, and set up their own restaurant for a role play session.

But it wasn't all about the food as they also learned about the origins and traditions of both festivals.

Nursery manager Anna Yeates said: "The children had a great time trying all the different foods and seemed to be equally impressed with the pancakes and the Chinese dishes."

"Their lanterns were lovely and they went home on Thursday very enthused about the idea of celebrating Chinese new year with their families."

Wannabe MP experiences a heated debate

LABOUR election candidate for Harlow Suzy Stride experienced the debating chamber at Mark Hall Academy when she visited the student parliament.

Like its Westminster counterpart, the First Avenue school's new student parliament

EXCHANGE OF VIEWS: Suzy Stride with Mark Hall Academy pupils

provides heated political debates. Each member is elected by peers.

But far from a ceremonial gathering, the parliament also acts as a bridge between students and staff, providing a forum to discuss improvements to be made in the school and the local community.

During Miss Stride's visit the students debated a number of issues including bus services, street lights, youth facilities, potholes and the NHS.

"It was great to meet inspiring student leaders," she said afterwards. "It was so exciting to see how they are bringing change to their school but also to hear about the changes they want to see across Harlow."

Academy principal Corinne Franceschi added: "It was wonderful to have Suzy come in."

Pupils pondering the really big questions...

Astronomer's Q&A covered time travel and Big Bang

William Mata

william.mata@harlowstar.co.uk

TIME travel and the big bang theory were among the subjects discussed when astronomer Colin Stuart visited Burnt Mill Academy to give a talk to GCSE physics students.

Mr Stuart, from the Royal Observatory, invited questions from his audience, who had stayed behind after school to listen to him.

Shani Jacobs, co-head of science at the school in First Avenue, said: "It was super cool to have Colin come and speak to us. The things he spoke about link directly to the students' core GCSE physics course."

"The students spent 45 minutes after his talk asking him questions, such as is it possible to go faster than the speed of light, what was here before the big bang and how long would it take to travel outside of the galaxy.

Answered

"Their questions were amazing and Colin answered them all, so it was fascinating for everyone and really helpful."

■ DEDICATED students went the extra mile to give their grades a boost when they attended school during the half-term break.

The pupils in Years 9-11 turned up for several hours of lessons in all subjects during extra classes which were laid on by the teaching staff.

While Year 11 students were

BIG QUESTIONS: Student Bryan Brown with Colin Stuart

expected to be in school to prepare for their GCSE exams, the young-year groups chose to take the opportunity for extra study.

Associate headteacher John Blaney said: "This is carefully planned, with every student having a tailor-made timetable for the week. No two students are attending the same sessions as it is down to what each individual student needs to focus on."

Burnt Mill students are no strangers to attending school in their own time, with Saturday school a regular commitment.

Revision

Year 11 student Mason Brewis, 16, said: "This extra revision will help me to get my grades and to achieve what I want. All the things I had been struggling on I am now better at. I have improved and that means I will get better results."

Classmate Ellie Eastman, 15, added: "I was asked to come in for two days, but I chose to come in for three instead. I have been revising history, sociology and maths."

MOCK INTERVIEWS: Front, Clair Escudier, John Ings-Wotton and Christine Cartwright from Moat Homes with students from Passmores Academy

Students are grilled to perfect interview technique

STUDENTS from Passmores Academy were given an Apprentice-style grilling in a series of mock interviews at the Park Inn Hotel.

Year 10 pupils from the Traces Road school in Harlow were quizzed for 30 minutes by representatives of local businesses including Moat Housing Association and NatWest Bank as well as staff from job agencies and other schools.

The interviews were set up as part of a wider focus on careers and were designed to boost the confidence of the Year 10 students before they entered Year 11 when they will undergo college and job applications. The hotel, in Southern Way, was chosen as a different, more professional environment.

The event was organised by careers co-ordinator Tammy Bassett, who said: "Even though they were all quite nervous beforehand they did get a lot of practice and they loved it."

"The feedback we got was that all the students had done really well."

Burnt Mill's stars show off prowess

SPORTY students from Burnt Mill Academy in Harlow have competed admirably in the county championships for badminton and table tennis.

The school was represented in the under 13 and under 16 table tennis contest held at BATTs table tennis club in the Norman Booth Centre in Old Harlow and in the under 14 and under 16 categories of the badminton competition held at Harlow Leisurezone.

Year 8 student Casey Mansfield, pictured, enjoyed particular success in winning the under 13 table tennis trophy. Burnt Mill sports co-ordinator Phil Dawes said: "Casey has been coached from a young age and is a great role model to his peers. They were really wowed by what they saw."

"We bought a set of table tennis tables at school only a year ago but the sport has become really popular with students who play at lunchtimes and after school."

101 DALMATIANS (AND OTHER BREEDS): The ninth Winter Walkies event for St Clare Hospice proved the most popular yet

ON THE TRAIL: Owners and dogs alike enjoyed the stroll

Ken Morley

ken.morley@hertsessexnews.co.uk

LABRADORS and lurchers rubbed shoulders with daschunds and dalmatians when more than 100 dogs of all shapes and sizes took part in St Clare Hospice's annual Winter Walkies fundraiser on Sunday.

The 5km stroll through the muddy Essex countryside started in the grounds of the Hastingwood hospice.

Leading the pack through the gates were Peanut and Daisy, who won an online competition to feature in publicity material for the popular event which this year attracted a record-breaking 170 walkers.

The walk was sponsored by estate agent Mullucks Wells and supported by Epping-based Forest Veterinary Centre, whose staff were on hand to offer a free microchip checking service and pet care advice as well as handing out doggy treats.

Goody bags provided by Half Moon Pets, of Bishop's Stortford, were presented to everyone who took part. A prize hamper will be presented to walker who raises the most sponsorship.

The competition for the best dressed dog was won by Connie the Pomchi (Pomeranian crossed with a Chihuahua) and her owner Fern Patterson, who wore matching animal print coats and accessories. There was also a tombola and a "Guess the famous dog" competition for children.

Organisers are still adding up the proceeds but are hoping to have raised £7,500 once all sponsorship money has been received.

St Clare event fundraiser Heather Cameron said: "This was the ninth year we have organised Winter Walkies and it gets more and more popular every year.

Wagging

"It really is a sight to see so many wagging tails held aloft as all the dogs set off out the hospice gate and it was wonderful to hear the positive comments from those who took part saying what a lovely atmosphere there was among their fellow dog lovers."

She added: "We'd like to thank everyone who came along or supported the event, helping us raise much-needed funds so we can provide our skilled and compassionate care to every local family who needs us."

Train line 'task force' to focus on faster services

Investment needed to meet the demands of growing population

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertssexnews.co.uk

AN announcement by Chancellor of the Exchequer George Osborne and London mayor Boris Johnson could signal big improvements for rail commuters using the West Anglia line.

A task force is to be set up to examine opportunities to improve rail connections on the Liverpool Street to Stansted/Cambridge line through Harlow as part of long-term economic plans for London.

One of the aims is to deliver £10bn worth of new investment into the capital's transport network during the course of the next Parliament, including improvements to the Underground service, better roads, more buses and cycle lanes.

Friday's announcement by Mr Osborne and Mr Johnson of the West Anglia task force, which is expected to report its findings by the middle of next year has been welcomed by Stansted Airport owners MAG.

A spokesman said: "Unlike other London airports, Stansted has spare runway capacity today and significant room to grow in the future.

"It is vital that faster rail services are delivered between London and Stansted to ensure that this potential is realised and it is encouraging that the Chancellor and Mayor of London recognise this.

"Working with the Department for Transport and Network Rail, we have already identified a clear short-term solution for speeding up train services to Stansted which will reduce journey times for airport passengers and commuters who use the line.

"It is now time to get on and deliver these improvements, as the first phase of a long-term programme of investment."

The London Stansted Cambridge Consortium, which represents businesses, local authorities and consumers, said it would continue to push for early delivery of major investment in infrastructure along the line.

Deputy chairman Kevin Bentley, who is also deputy leader of Essex County Council, said: "This provides an opportunity to combine faster and more frequent mainline services to Cambridge, Hertfordshire, Essex and Stansted plus a high frequency service within London, including Liverpool Street, Stratford and Tottenham."

"With the population along the corridor set to grow by 1.4 million in just 20 years, a more ambitious and long-term strategic approach for infrastructure investment is now necessary in order to allow high-tech businesses to grow and new housing to be unlocked."

GA passengers turn to Twitter to complain

TRAIN operator Abellio Greater Anglia came second in a list of companies ranked by tweets received about delays in 2014.

The company received 41,120 complaints, according to a report released by Commuter London. It also ranked third in terms of tweets relating to overcrowding and cancellations.

A spokesman for GA said it encouraged passengers to interact via its Twitter account in a way that not all companies did.

"We have consistently expanded our Twitter service since taking over the franchise in February 2012, he said.

"With over 50,000 followers, Twitter is a positive and responsive way in which we can engage with our customers," he said.

"Our Twitter team is based in our control office where the operators receive immediate updates on train running matters which they can quickly pass on to customers requesting service information and travel advice.

"We also genuinely appreciate the feedback that we receive via social media, which helps in our efforts to improve the services that we provide."

The only company to receive more complaints than GA was First Great Western.

Don't be tricked into giving bank details in bogus water firm calls

THE water company which supplies households in Harlow is warning its customers to be on their guard against fraudsters calling customers and asking for their bank details to make a refund.

The tricksters claim to be from Affinity Water and says he is calling about overpaid water charges.

But this week the company said it would never ask customers to divulge their bank details over the telephone.

Director of customer relations Vincent Muldoon said: "Payment for overpaid water charges is made by cheque or direct into the bank account."

"We are very concerned about these unscrupulous people who try to defraud our customers by obtaining their bank details and we urge people to be vigilant when they give out personal details over the telephone."

"This is just one method that fraudsters use to try and obtain bank, credit or debit card details. They often target elderly and vulnerable people so we would like to urge all who hear this message to inform their relatives and friends."

In a bid to tackle fraudsters who call at homes posing as company representatives in order to gain entry, Affinity Water offers vulnerable customers – the elderly and those living alone or with small children – customers can register for a password.

This will be then be communicated to them before they allow unexpected callers access to their home.

For more information or to register for a password, visit www.affinitywater.co.uk/boguscallers.

Anyone who suspects suspect they have been the victim of fraud should contact their bank or credit card company as soon as possible and report their suspicions to police.

STAY in the home you LOVE

Improve your quality of life and stay in the home you love by installing a stairlift into your home.

And it may surprise you just how cost effective this is.

When it becomes tougher to get up and down your stairs it can become difficult to make the most of your home and you can often feel restricted – but this doesn't mean you have to accept your limitations or move from the home where you've made so many memories.

A stairlift can transform the accessibility of your home and give you back full use of your property once again.

Too many people wait until a fall or hospitalisation before getting a stairlift. Don't delay, stay in the home you love today.

Churchill's Homecare is a British family-owned business which has over 20 years' experience in the stairlift market helping its customers.

Our aim is for our customers to feel more happy and independent in their own homes again thanks to our range of stairlifts available in straight, curved and perched for any home and condition.

Churchill's Homecare offers a number of benefits to its customers including next day installation and a buyback guarantee for when you no longer need the stairlift with up to 50 per cent buyback (subject to terms and conditions).

All our stairlifts also come with our TouchClean antibacterial technology for free, limiting cleaning and the threat of bacteria and germs. TouchClean antibacterial coating kills up to 99.9 per cent of all bacteria upon contact protecting you and your loved ones from germs such as MRSA, E Coli, Salmonella, Difficile and bacterial spores.

We've received fantastic reviews from our customers who would recommend our service to others. Mrs Parker of Ludlow said: "The Churchill's' service was very good and straightforward. The chair is easy to use and very useful, I've been up and down the stairs a lot since it was installed – it's very convenient and we love the Guaranteed Buyback service."

In brief

Free sports activities

A NEW project giving young people aged 14-25 the chance to enjoy free sports activities is being launched in Harlow next week.

The project is run by Harlow Council and Active Harlow in partnership with Child UK and Paringdon Community Leisure and funded by StreetGames and Active Essex.

The activities will take place at Paringdon Sports and Social Club, in Paringdon Road, every Monday evening from 7-9pm.

The first hour will be a mixture of martial arts and other activities with the second hour focusing on football. However, the programme may change according to the needs of those taking part.

Foodbank appeal

HARLOW Foodbank has launched an urgent appeal for a number of specific items they need to restock their warehouse.

The items needed by the charity include long life milk and fruit juice, sponge puddings, instant mash potato, tinned meat and small bags of sugar.

For details of how to donate items to the foodbank, visit mrcr.org.uk/how-to-donate-food.

Arts give £1m boost

A SUMMER arts showcase gave the Essex economy a £1.3m boost last year, it has been revealed.

The series of 19 arts and cultural trails across the county created the equivalent of 18.39 full-time jobs while volunteers clocked up 12,459 hours to support for the programme over five months.

NCP agrees to install premium rate barrier

MP claims victory in row over 'unfair' fines at multi-storey

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A BARRIER will be installed in the restricted area of the car park at Harlow Town station after operator NCP was accused of "fleecing" motorists.

Earlier this year Harlow MP Robert Halfon called for car park bosses to refund motorists, who were penalised for leaving their vehicles in restricted areas which he claims are inadequately signed.

Mr Halfon accused NCP of "fleecing" car users, despite its promise to improve the clarity of signs at the multi-storey car park.

"I think it is outrageous that hardworking residents are being fleeced by NCP with inadequate signage, despite being promised that it would be improved," he said.

He also demanded motorists fined after parking in the restricted level three bays should be refunded immediately because regulations are not clear.

NCP said the third level of the car park was a "premium" rate area and large yellow signs were in place to explain the bay system.

Mr Halfon recently met with the NCP, who said that all their signage met all legal standards, but they would look into the issue.

Following their investigation, NCP say they will be installing a new barrier system which will prevent people from unknowingly parking in the restricted parking area. They will also put up additional signage.

Mr Halfon has also raised the individual cases of people who have been affected by the fines.

NCP insisted they had made it clear that the fines met the legal standards but has agreed to investigate individual complaints. They have refunded some individuals the ticket as a gesture of goodwill.

Mr Halfon said: "I am glad that NCP have listened and are investing in the car park to prevent people from making these honest mistakes again.

"It is good news that in some of the cases that NCP have looked at again, they have agreed to refund the fines as a gesture of goodwill."

"I am hopeful that situation will soon be fully resolved," he added.

NCP chief executive Jo Cooper wrote in a letter to Mr Halfon: "The last thing we want to be doing is issuing fines to customers for genuine human error."

Event to offer advice to help LGBT families with adoption

ESSEX Council Council will be holding a lesbian, gay, bi-sexual and transgender adoption and fostering event during LGBT Adoption and Fostering Week.

Potential adopters and foster carers are invited to speak to LGBT families, who have already experienced the process.

There will be information on how to apply to adopt or foster as well as the training and support available and the types of children who need families.

Cllr Dick Madden, cabinet member for children's services, said: "We know that fostering and adoption can provide really successful outcomes, helping children to flourish."

"Hopefully LGBT Adoption and Fostering Week will inspire people to give a vulnerable child or children a safe, secure and loving home."

An increasing number of LGBT families are coming forward to offer a home to a child or children who need one. In 2014/15 six per cent of adopters approved by Essex County Council were LGBT, compared with four per cent in 2011/12.

The Essex County Council event will take place from 1-4pm on Sunday, March 8 at Writtle Wick Family Centre in Chignal Road, Chelmsford.

Airfield on radar as base for park and ride service

Councils investigate possibility of commuter link

Simon Murfitt

star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

COMMUTERS could soon leave their cars at North Weald Airfield and catch a park and ride bus to Epping in a bid to alleviate congestion in the town.

A report is being compiled by Epping Forest District Council, in conjunction with Essex County Council, and is due to be completed by the end of next month.

If it gets the go-ahead the park-and-ride scheme would link North Weald Airfield with Epping.

Councillor Anne Grigg, North Weald Bassett ward councillor and assets and economic development portfolio holder at Epping Forest District Council, supported the report being commissioned.

"Some residents in North Weald have suggested it would be a good idea for North Weald Airfield and that's why we wanted to look into it," she said.

"It would be a benefit to residents but it also needs to generate money for the council. It needs to be viable from an income point of view."

The report could be good news for commuters in North Weald, who struggle to find parking spaces to use London Underground trains at Epping and residents who find their roads busy with commuter cars.

Cllr Grigg added: "There have been problems for Epping residents because once the station car park is filled up and the all-day car parks are filled, people try to park wherever it's possible. It would be mainly for commuters and people who work in Epping."

"The park and ride would be on the airfield from Monday to Friday, which fits in with commuters, and at the moment the area of land is used by the market on Saturdays and bank holidays. That also fits in with commuters not going into London on Saturdays and bank holidays so that is the idea we want to explore."

John Havers, managing director at North Weald Airfield, said he would support the idea but had some reservations about how successful it could be.

"If it was where the market is I would be for it," he said. "I wouldn't have any objection at all and I know the council needs some money."

"But they have tried the park and ride before and it has been a failure because people are too lazy to park their car and get on a bus. They would rather dice with death and parking fines in the town centre."

"The council are looking for something that they are never going to find. The airfield costs them £340,000 a year to run and they are looking for the golden nugget to make the money back, but they are never going to find it."

Commuter Jennie Russell, who travels into London from North Weald by driving to Epping station, said a park and ride would be "very useful".

She said roads around Epping Underground station become gridlocked on a daily basis due to commuters parking nearby, adding: "A lot of people travel in that way, even from Chelmsford and Harlow, by going to Epping station. After 7.30am you can't get a parking space."

"I wouldn't be able to use it because I have to pick my kids up from school straight after work but if not it would be great, especially for people who don't have to be in so early."

She added: "I would love to see them allow the Epping Ongar Railway to open up the line again."

"They are planning on having all these houses here without the infrastructure to support them."

- The Conservatives have pledged to protect universal pension benefits eg. free bus passes, free TV licences. Labour plan to scrap universal pension benefits.
- Residents with private pension schemes now have more freedom over their own money.

The cat who came home after EIGHT YEARS away

THE sad tale of a cat owner who was left heartbroken when her beloved pet went missing from home eight years ago now has a happy ending after her moggie was found living 20 miles away.

Susan MacDonald feared her tabby called Malcolm was dead after it disappeared from her home in Devon in 2007.

But she got the surprise of her life when she received a telephone call earlier this month to tell her Malcolm had been found safe and well.

He was discovered wandering the streets of a village by a vet who scanned his microchip and immediately contacted Mrs MacDonald.

"I was devastated when he disappeared," said the delighted owner. "I don't think he would have deliberately strayed. I feel he probably got in a car or something like that and ended up being adopted.

"But how he suddenly reappeared after eight years I don't know. I often used to think about him. It was not knowing what happened to him that I didn't like."

But now Malcolm is safely back at home.

"I could not believe it," said Mrs MacDonald. "You never think you are going to find your animal eight years later."

The vet who found Malcolm said: "He has obviously been doing very well for himself the last eight years and is certainly well fed."

"If cats could speak I'm sure that he'd have a tale to tell."

Award-winning estate 'hideous'

Bishopsfield residents gave diverse view of area in film

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsexnews.co.uk

A DOCUMENTARY about the Bishopsfield estate in Harlow highlighted the gap between environment that architects and planners think is good to live in and opinions of those who live there.

Residents' views of the award-winning development are as diverse as the people who live there and range from nice to hideous.

The 1969 film begins by showing the credits over long range shots of Bishopsfield. Bishopsfield is a distinctive horseshoe shape with alleyways radiating from the centre. There are 239 dwellings ranging from bedsits to three or four-bedroom bungalows, the latter having gardens.

Most of the film comprises residents talking over shots of the exterior of Bishopsfield and there are some shots of interiors. There are also some comments from architects.

A sequence follows a young couple walking through Bishopsfield to their flat. The views of the residents are diverse.

Most of them dislike the alleyways and the steep lanes that become dangerous because they attract local youths to use them for roller skating and carting, causing accidents. Litter is a problem.

One resident expresses the view that Bishopsfield will be a slum within seven years. The architect thinks that they are good architecture - good to live in. The residents also dislike the expanses of brick and concrete.

There is very little greenery. The residents feel that Bishopsfield is claustrophobic and describe the appearance as bleak.

Most residents agree that the residences are pleasant but there are drawbacks.

Some residents mention high heating costs, expanses of floor that they are reluctant to carpet because of the underfloor heating. Some speak of condensation and of mould. The residents agree that the flats are very private.

Divided

The underground garages are discussed over shots of a young man washing his car. Again opinion is divided. Many appreciate the quiet of having no traffic noise, although that doesn't hold true for the people whose homes are near the entrance.

The appearance of the garages is described as brutal. The garages themselves are difficult to maintain and dangerous. Public services are generally very good but the communal rubbish areas are criticised.

A recurring theme of the film's commentary is that in Bishopsfield no-one stays very long.

Even a resident who is generally appreciative admits that she cannot imagine living there for more than a year.

The film ends with a variety of shots of Bishopsfield. Some are night shots with some are taken in the rain.

Organiser Julie Fitzgerald said: "We're looking forward to a busy few days and hopefully the weather will ensure a great turnout.

"We really enjoy the show. It's a fantastic event with a great crowd, showcasing many innovative and exciting producers from across our region. We always enjoy chatting to people about all things Adnams, and showing off our new products, such as our latest Jack Brand beers and Adnams Prosecco.

"We've also got a seated area with Adnams deckchairs if visitors are looking for somewhere to take the weight off their feet and have a drink."

Show shoppers will no doubt be tempted by the Adnams Cellar & Kitchen beach hut, with an opportunity to taste spirits from Adnams' Copper House Distillery. Visitors can try and buy Adnams spirits, all of which use barley grown and malted in East Anglia.

Adnams is proud to support a number of 'foodie' events, which are now firmly established on the calendar.

"The provenance of what's on our plate or in our glass has never been more talked about," added Julie.

"We work with growers and suppliers who share our enthusiasm for great quality produce. Whether it's the malted barley in our beer, what's on the menu in our hotels or the goodies on offer in our Adnams Stores, we pride ourselves in using the best sustainable ingredients.

"Tours of the Adnams brewery and distillery run throughout the year and give you a chance to see the local ingredients that go into our products and the energy saving initiatives that have been introduced to make Adnams one of the most energy-efficient breweries in the country.

FILMGUIDE

WORTH A WATCH

DRAMA CSI: CRIME SCENE INVESTIGATION (CHANNEL 5, 9PM)

Given her 12-year attachment to the movie Boys n the Hood, there's little wonder Hollywood has gone crazy over Patricia Arquette again.

Of course for fans of the blonde actress, she's been a force to be reckoned with for decades, shining in movies such as True Romance, Beyond Rangoon and Ed Wood.

She's also on good form in this edition of Jerry Bruckheimer's seemingly invincible forensics strand.

The drama opens when a call leads DB and the team to descend on an abandoned building, where they find a murder scene with no body that appears to have already had the full CSI treatment.

Nick and Sara are concerned that the Gig Harbour serial killer has resurfaced, though the man found guilty of the murders is currently residing on death row.

Meanwhile, Julie thinks that Jared's twin Paul could have carried out a copycat killing in an effort to undermine his brother's conviction.

DRAMA HOSTAGES (BBC4, 9PM)

There's a good bet you won't be aware of 1992 TV series Inyan Shel Zman, or the 1993 movie Nikmat Shel Itzik Finkelstein. However, both projects gave actress Ayelet Zurer a chance to hone her craft before moving on to bigger projects such as Steven Spielberg's Munich, Superman reboot Man of Steel and Marvel's new TV series Daredevil.

Two years ago she starred in this critically acclaimed offering as Dr Yael Danon, which is now getting a welcome screening many moons after Channel 4 aired the US remake.

In this week's offering, a soldier surprises the Danon family and the kidnappers by turning up at the front door, and it soon transpires that Noa has been keeping secrets.

Directors Omri Givon and Rotem Shamir crank up the tension, while good support comes from Jonah Lotan, Micha Selekta, Dar Zuzovsky, Yaov Rotman, Mickey Leon, Hilla Vidor and Tomer Kapon.

MUSIC REGINALD D HUNTER'S SONGS OF THE SOUTH (BBC2, REGIONS VARY)

If you've seen recent Colin Firth movie Kingsman: The Secret Service, chances are you will never hear Lynyrd Skynyrd's classic Freebird in the same way again after a stunningly violent scene in a Kentucky church.

No such moments of graphic horror in this superb series as the eponymous funnyman continues his exploration of the American South through its music. In Alabama he attends a Lynyrd Skynyrd gig and learns about the city of Muscle Shoals' role in the development of soul.

Then Reg is back on home turf in the state of Georgia; he takes a trip to Athens, where rock bands the B52s and REM were formed.

Given the acclaim of Martin Luther King biopic Selma, there's also a timely trip to Atlanta, the birthplace of the civil rights leader.

There are contributions from Clarence Carter, Sharon Jones, Arrested Development, St Paul and the Broken Bones.

Getting in GERE for a return to India . . .

THEY'RE BACK: The original cast returned to India for the sequel.

THE SECOND BEST EXOTIC MARIGOLD HOTEL

DRAMA (PG), 122 mins

Director: John Madden.

Starring: Judi Dench, Maggie Smith, Bill Nighy, Dev Patel, Penelope Wilton, Ronald Pickup, David Strathairn, Richard Gere, Celia Imrie, Tamsin Greig, Tina Desai, Diana Hardcastle, Lillete Dubey, Shazad Latif.

TOWARDS the end of The Second Best Exotic Marigold Hotel, a secret inspector is asked for an honest assessment of Jaipur's luxury development for residents in their golden years.

The inspector concludes that behind the scenes, management of the hotel is shambolic, but unerring affection for the staff makes it a four-star destination for "the elderly and beautiful".

The same honest appraisal applies to John Madden's entertaining sequel: Ol Parker's script is haphazard and several plot strands are flimsy, but our emotional investment in the characters papers over the cracks.

Audiences who check in to this second chapter will be treated to the same pungent Jaipur backdrops and good-humoured service, with a fresh lick of dramatic paint courtesy of new arrivals, played with easy-going charm by Tamsin Greig and Richard Gere.

The dashing star of American Gigolo and Pretty Woman takes on sex symbol status here, causing groom-to-be Sonny (Dev Patel) to quip: "The man is so handsome, he has me urgently questioning my own sexuality."

At 65 years old, Gere evidently still has it.

While the first film was lovingly adapted from Deborah Moggach's novel These Foolish Things, The Second Best Exotic Marigold Hotel tumbles straight out of the scriptwriter Parker's imagination.

He struggles to provide each resident with a compelling narrative arc: some are surplus to requirements, while others relish the trials and tribulations that test fledgling romances and fractious friendships to breaking point.

Sonny and business partner Muriel (Maggie Smith) travel abroad to seek investment for a second hotel from business chief Ty Burley (David Strathairn) and return to India, mindful that funding is dependent on a review from a secret inspector.

"How was America?" asks Evelyn (Judi Dench), welcoming them home.

"It made death more tempting," retorts Muriel.

English traveller Lavinia (Greig) and American novelist Guy (Gere) arrive soon after and Sonny is convinced that Guy must be the inspector so he ignores Lavinia and lavishes attention on the writer.

Guy's arrival sends Madge (Celia Imrie) into a swoon – "Lordy lord, have mercy on my ovaries!" she swoons – while Douglas (Bill Nighy) struggles to communicate his feelings to Evelyn.

Madden's film is certainly a gift: you get everything you expect but nothing more.

DAME Judi Dench has a problem with growing older. "I don't like 'age' much. Is getting older better? No. There's nothing good about it," remarks the 80-year-old.

Perhaps inevitably, the acclaimed actress often finds herself fielding questions about retirement and advancing years, and she doesn't care for it – and today, as pleasantly and politely as she addresses it, she isn't about to be drawn into an involved discussion over whether ageing is something she relishes or not.

As the York-born star has shown us time and time again, though, age is no barrier to performance.

There's her fantastic turn as M in the Bond films, her Oscar-nominated portrayal of a true-life mother searching for the son she was forced to give up for adoption in Philomena, and of course, her role as sweet-natured widow Evelyn in The Best Exotic Marigold Hotel.

Its sequel is released this month and, like the first movie, The Second Best Exotic Marigold Hotel, about a motley older community making new lives for themselves in India, also starring the likes of Dame Maggie Smith, Celia Imrie and Richard Gere, elegantly bridges humour and drama.

"Evelyn has much more courage than I would have. I wouldn't go off to India if my husband had just died. I wouldn't have had that courage to go to a foreign country, where I didn't know anything about it. I might, perhaps, go as far as Scotland or Cornwall..." says Dench, who has a 42-year-old daughter called Finty.

"I understand that thing of saying to your children, 'I don't want to be a burden, I don't want to hang around and for you to have to look after me'. But that wouldn't be me, I'm not brave like that."

In this latest instalment, Evelyn is now considering a new career in fashion, which was a joy for Dench, who has a healthy disregard for wearing the opposite of "what people think you should wear".

"What you find is that the thing which is most comfortable, is the thing that probably suits you most and you'll move best in. Whereas you could be in something that's frightfully fashionable and probably looks all right, but you can be in agony in it. And all you'll remember is the agony. Not worth it," she notes, looking as chic as ever today, with her trademark crop highlighting that enviable bone structure.

Evelyn also finds herself in

She may take her work seriously, but Dame Judi Dench always has time for a good giggle, as Keeley Bolger finds out as they talk about The Second Best Exotic Marigold Hotel

BACK IN INDIA: Dame Judi Dench as Evelyn Greenslade in The Second Best Exotic Marigold Hotel

Checking in again emotional turmoil this time round, as she grapples with her feelings for the affable Douglas, played by Bill Nighy.

While she never "judges" the characters she plays, preferring instead to "try and understand them – with all their failings, strengths and misgivings", she did enjoy continuing the will-they-won't-they love story.

"I think having somebody around to go and do things and have a laugh with is very important indeed," says the star, whose husband Michael Williams died in 2001 (she's now in a "lovely" relationship with conservationist David Mills).

Laughing is something Dench, recently seen in BBC One's big-hearted Esio Trot with Dustin Hoffman, does a lot, whether she's gossiping with Graham Norton on his chat show, posing in a baseball cap with 'dench' (now a colloquial term for 'cool') emblazoned on it, or mischief-making on set.

"I have a reputation for behaving quite badly," she admits, confessing that she's been known for playing tricks on her co-stars.

"I don't do it so much now, but I used to. I have played jokes on people, you know, very subtly so the audience can't see. I find it irresistible."

During a miserably wet day while filming period drama Cranford a few years back, she started a game where all the cast had to make a boat out of a piece of paper – but her co-star Dame Eileen Atkins didn't quite follow the rules.

"Eileen made a car out of it," the actress recalls, laughing. "I said, 'You're absolutely disqualified from the game!'"

Doubtless, The Second Best Exotic Marigold Hotel director John Madden can attest to that sense of youthful fun.

He's full of praise for her "warmth and humanity" and "skill set to die for", but also says: "She's funny as hell!"

"I mean she's totally disrespectful of whatever she's doing, of everybody around her... [But] she's loyal and she gives everything to what she's doing. She's a force of nature, extraordinary.

Everything about her is special."

Dench happily admits she and Maggie Smith were reduced to "giggling girls" during their eight-week shoot in India, passing their spare time playing word game Bananagrams (incidentally, a game Dench taught Smith, who in turn introduced it to her Downton colleagues).

"I was swimming in the hotel one day and Maggs was in her room. She said, 'Oh Judi, go and get Bananagrams'," Dench explains.

"So I swam back, went in, got the Bananagrams, tied it round my head and swam back – and she took a photograph!"

■ The Second Best Exotic Marigold Hotel is released in cinemas today (Thursday, February 26).

ON FIRE:

Circus of Horrors perform
(Picture: Marc Wheatley Photography)

HORROR awaits you!

ENTER a city ruled by the undead with Britain's Got Talent finalists The Circus of Horrors' latest show at Harlow Playhouse.

The Night of the Zombie is set in 2020 in a decrepit corpse ridden London, plagued by Zombies, a city ruled by the undead and climaxes in an awesome flaming apocalypse.

The story twists and turns with grisly murders and sensational shocks – all interwoven with some of the greatest and most bizarre circus acts on earth – sword swallowers, knife-throwers, daredevil balancing acts, astounding aerialists, a demon dwarf, a Guinness World Record holding 'hairculian' hair hanging beauty, Sinister Sisters and gyrating and fire-limboing acrobats.

The last few years has seen the profile of The Circus of Horrors jump tremendously after rampaging into the finals of Britain's Got Talent and is still the only circus to reach the finals of the ITV1 show.

Its appearances on various subsequent TV shows have turned what set out as a cult show into a household name.

Its TV credits now boast The X Factor, The Slammer, Daybreak, Fairground Attractions, Who wants to be a Millionaire, Body Shockers, Fake Reaction, This Morning, Ant & Dec, The One Show and A Royal Command Performance.

Last year saw another giant leap for the show when it began a series of dates in London's West End, becoming the first circus to appear in a West End Theatre for 100 years.

The show started its gruesome beginnings at the 1995 Glastonbury Festival and became an instant hit, touring all over the world from Chile to Chatham, Argentina to Aberdeen and Japan to Jersey!

They have also shared stage time with Alice Cooper, Eminem, Motley Crue, Oasis, Iron Maiden, the Manic Street Preachers and Marilyn Manson

WHEN: Sun, Mar 1, 4pm

ALL-female trio The Lounge Kittens bring pop songs with a twist to The Square in Harlow next month.

The Southampton-based band were brought together by Jenny Deacon and Timia Gwendoline, who met during a production of Sondheim's Company. In late 2012, Zan Lawther, a mutual friend from choir was drafted in.

The Kittens have performed in front of thousands at festivals across the country including Glastonbury and Sonisphere. After three warm-up gigs including Harlow, the band are off on tour with the bad boys of heavy metal, Steel Panther.

The cat-obsessed trio became something of an internet sensation last year with their cover of Limp Bizkit's Rollin'.

Glamorous, tuneful and just a little bit geeky, they're determined to bring some fun to their show.

The group also had success with their version of Slipknot's Duality at the end of last year.

"The Lounge Kittens as a band are all about duality. So we had two groups of fans from different sides – the cabaret crowd who appreciate the cheek of what we do and the die-hard metallers with a sense of humour – arguing over a double-booking and whose event we should ultimately play at," Timia Kitten told Kerrang.

"This also gave us an opportunity to put the two sides in different masks which was a nice little nod to Slipknot. Jenny's arrangement reminded me so much of the silent film era, whenever we sang the verse I envisioned Keystone Kops, Charlie Chaplin, Buster Keaton, slapstick chases and funny sped-up running, so that was what we were channelling during the making of this video.

"Obviously, it's not a Lounge Kittens video without a generous helping of goofiness, so making it silly, ridiculous and fun was always massively important. What we ended up with was a good 'ole slapstick chase. Plus sequins."

■ The Lounge Kittens + Daryl Kellie appear at The Square on Saturday. Tickets cost £4 in advance or £6 on the door.

JS Bach's St John Passion
Hertfordshire Chorus@The Cathedral and Abbey Church of Saint Alban, St Albans. Time 19:30. Tickets £25, £20, £15, £8 (concessions available). The St John Passion is the oldest extant Passion by Bach, and is performed less often than his St Matthew Passion. It is a strikingly dramatic work with an expressive immediacy; more extravagant and unbridled than St Matthew Bach's great achievement with this piece is to marry a detailed, complex structure with coherent and powerful story telling. It uses four parallel strands to bring the events of the passion to startling life. £25 01727 890290

Clio makes French Sense

The Renault Clio is continuing to stand out loud and proud in the busy and competitive supermini market. The fourth generation model maintains its five star EuroNCAP rating and offers an abundance of specification levels which suit any buyer's budget.

A total of seven variants are available in the Clio range offering basic features such as finger tip remote controls and push button start/stop, developing into the advanced technologies of on-board

7-inch touch screen infotainment with sat nav (on certain models), Renault anti intruder device and ESM, which collects kinetic energy and transfers the power to recharge the battery.

Stylish, seductive and contemporary lines draw the eye over the dynamic bodywork, highlighted by double optic halogen headlights with black surround and sculpted door decals. You can even personalise the exterior with gloss panel inserts in various colours (on certain models).

Inside the cabin there is a bright, spacious and cheery feel with accents of colour and features like Bluetooth and USB connections as standard.

Some of the safety features which assisted the Clio in obtaining its outstanding NCAP rating include ISOFIX fittings, hill start assist and ESP, which brakes one or more wheels if loss of traction occurs.

With a lower and longer wheelbase than previous versions, the Clio grips the road with more determination, producing a much more responsive drive. Yet this addition has, in fact, brought about an astonishing weight decrease and therefore an increase in performance and fuel efficiency.

A refined engine that is happy nipping along the motorway or gliding around the twists and turns of city driving, is complimented with highly responsive and sharp handling.

The Clio is a real pleasure to drive and, with low CO2 emissions, it really is the full package.

Although the Clio is a supermini, it has a strong presence on the road and is a well-proportioned all-rounder.

The great news is that the Clio is available now from Lifestyle Renault dealerships.

15 PLATE

Catch a Toyota coupe while you can

TOYOTA remembers when coupes were simple, rear-wheel drive and designed to give the person behind the wheel a good time.

Their GT86 returned us to those days – and now can be had with a wider model range starting from a lower price point. JONATHAN CROUCH reports.

■ BACKGROUND

The GT86 formula is simply classic: a snarly, high-revving four-cylinder engine in the nose, rear-wheel-drive, 2+2 seating, a swoopy body, a stubby gear lever and a cosy cabin with low-slung sports seats. Subaru's version of this design, the BRZ, is mechanically identical but looks a little different, plus there is a third version for the American market called the Scion FR-S which has been subtly altered again.

Common to all the variants however, is a 197bhp, 151lb ft flat four engine that uses a Subaru block and Toyota-designed cylinder heads that's been designed to spin to 7000rpm and direct its output to the road via a six-speed manual gearbox, though auto transmission is an option.

So it's Old School with a modern execution. At launch, only the £25,000 asking price put some buyers off, decent value though that was in comparison to potential rivals like the Volkswagen Scirocco R. So Toyota has widened the range, introducing a 'Primo' entry-level model costing from £23,000. The top Aero variant meanwhile, gets a full bodykit. Otherwise, the recipe is much as before.

■ DRIVING EXPERIENCE

Weighing just 1,180 kilos, you might expect the GT86 to make rather more of its 197bhp and 151lb ft of torque than the estimated headline performance stats of 140mph and 0-62mph in 7.6s suggest.

But this car isn't just about raw power. Its lean kerb weight plays just as big a role in the way it handles and rides.

A limited slip differential is also fitted as standard, reaffirming GT86's essential "driver's car" character.

And, in this respect, all the ingredients look especially promising: quick steering, a limited slip differential and, perhaps most importantly of all,

ESP that can be fully turned off. The emphasis here is on keenness of response, agility and the ability to adjust the cornering attitude as much with the throttle as the helm.

Meanwhile, 17-inch versions of the low rolling resistance tyres that can also be found on the Toyota Prius should ensure that outright grip never overwhelms the desire to play the angles, should the driver so wish.

Back-to-basics fun was always at the heart of the brief for this car. The driving environment should certainly help get you in the mood with its low-slung bucket seats and driver-centric control layout, not to mention the drilled pedals and footrest.

Disappointments? A short-throw gear change that's a tad notchy and a six-speed auto option that, while smooth, lacks the snappy alacrity of the best double-clutchers. But that's about it.

SUMMARY

Could this car be any better? Of course, it could be faster, grippier, quieter and of better quality inside. But personally, we wouldn't really want it to be. All of those things would dilute the very qualities that make this

GT86 what it is. Sportscars always used to be this way, light, low powered and modestly rubbered. We had fun in them then and we can have fun in this one now. The chassis is excellent, the controls are brilliant, the driving position nigh-on perfect and the engine is revvy and fun.

So, what we have here is something to savour; one of those rare machines that involves you so much that you don't need to be travelling at three figure speeds to have fantastic fun. Factor in the affordable running costs, high residuals and the now more affordable pricing and this becomes a tempting proposition indeed. In years to come, it'll be a landmark car for Toyota. Get one and you won't regret it.

Subaru ups its game

SUBARU has pulled out all the stops with the latest Outback. Yes, this stalwart estate might look similar to the old car, but it's a fresh design with a more amenable price tag, a better quality cabin and a great warranty.

The good news for British buyers is the fact that you can now buy a diesel version that's paired with an automatic gearbox. Have a guess at how many cars Subaru sold on the UK last year. To help you with some ballpark numbers, Ford sold over 326,000, Vauxhall shifted almost 270,000 and even a prestige outfit like Porsche registered more than 9,000 cars.

You're probably not even close.

The Japanese company sold a mere 2,793 cars here, and that was 23 per cent better than the previous year.

It has struggled to overcome the strength of the Yen, which almost killed Subaru as a viable entity in the UK but, having been shaken to the core by that experience, the company has vowed to come back stronger than ever before with products that really speak for themselves.

To that end, say hello to the revised Outback. This is a car that rarely gets the credit it deserves. A quarter of a century ago, before the Audi allroad or the Volvo XC70 were even doodles on sketchpads, the Outback brought us the all-wheel drive estate. The fourth generation car launched here back in 2010 and this fifth generation model moves the game on in several key regards.

Mechanically, the big news with this version of the Outback is that Subaru has decided that it's time to stop shooting itself in the foot with petrol-only engine ranges and diesel manual models that few folk ideally sought.

Instead, the brand plans now to deliver what customers want, namely the excellent boxer diesel engine paired with an automatic gearbox.

Well, when I say 'automatic', it's strictly speaking a seven-step Lineartronic constantly variable transmission, but you get the idea. There's no clutch pedal. The engine's good for 150PS and if that's not enough, you can still buy a 2.5-litre petrol with 165PS. We'll stick with the diesel if it's all the same.

This being Subaru, the engineers have tweaked the car's suspension for sharper handling. As before, you get a healthy 200mm of ground clearance, and Subaru's Symmetrical All-Wheel Drive (AWD) system features on all models.

Choose the manual transmission and there's also an Active Torque Split, and for those with the Lineartronic CVT there's a centre differential with viscous limited slip differential; just two ways to achieve much the same end, namely strong traction in all conditions.

The changes to the Outback's exterior look decidedly modest. Then you speak to the Subaru people and they tell you that the body is all new. Everything.

You look at the vehicle again and wonder what possessed them to design and then retool for a complete set of panels that look virtually identical to the old ones.

Subaru reckons it can shift 800 of these Outbacks per year, with 60 per cent of them being diesels. While we wouldn't take issue with the extent of their ambition, it's hard to see four out of 10 Outback customers turning down the economy and torque of the diesel-engined version.

Prices start at around £28,000 for the 2.0D SE variant. That buys you a manual Outback diesel: you do need to add £2,000 for the Lineartronic box.

The petrol model starts at around £28,500 with a Lineartronic transmission.

Responsible drivers scrap their vehicles at an Authorised Treatment Facility (ATF).

Because only an ATF can legally scrap a vehicle.
That means any pollutants will be made safe

The above Order confirmed on 16th February, 2015 will divert Footpath 31 in the Parish of North Weald in the District of Epping (CM16 6AL). The effect of the order will be to divert the current path away from the close proximity of the residence known as St Clements to a new route taking the path further to the northern boundary of the property. A further section of the path that runs across the golf course will be diverted to where the public currently walk avoiding the greens and tees and terminating at the west end further south where it emerges onto a verge at Rayley Lane which is considered much safer than the current termination point and also will connect closer to Footpath 42 North Weald as shown on the Order Map contained in this Order.

A copy of the Order and Order Map have been placed in and may be seen free of charge at Epping District Council, Civic Offices, High Street, Epping and at the Chelmsford Public Library, Market Road, Chelmsford during normal working hours. Copies of the Order and Order map are available on request from the Chelmsford Library at a charge.

The new path will come into effect on 16th March, 2015. However, if any person aggrieved by the order, wants to question its validity, or that of any provision contained in it, on the ground that it is not within the powers of the Highways Act 1980, as amended, or on the ground that any requirement of the Act, as amended, or of any regulation made under the Act has not been complied with in relation to the Order, he or she may, under paragraph 2 of Schedule 2 to the Act as applied by paragraph 5 of Schedule 6 to the Act, within 6 weeks from 26th February, 2015 make an application to the High Court.

Dated 26th February 2015.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Designation of an Area for Additional Licensing
UNDER Section 56, Housing Act 2004

Harlow District Council ("the Council"), Civic Centre, The Water Gardens, Harlow, Essex, CM20 1WG, in exercise of its powers under Section 56 of the Housing Act 2004 ("the Act") has on the 18th December 2014 designated all land in the Council's administrative district as subject to Additional Licensing for the purposes of that section.

The Designation shall come into force on 15th April 2015 and shall cease to have effect on 14th April 2020. Under Section 58 of the Act, this designation falls within a description of designations for which the Secretary of State has issued general approval dated 30 March 2010. This means that following a minimum of 10 weeks consultation with persons who are likely to be affected, every local housing authority in England has the Secretary of State's general approval to designate an area as subject to Additional Licensing.

This designation shall apply to all Houses in Multiple Occupation (HMO's) as defined by Section 254 of the Act which includes flats in multiple occupation in purpose built blocks or converted buildings that are not required to be licensed as a whole.

The proposed scheme includes all Houses in Multiple Occupation (HMO's) in the designated area that are not already subject to Mandatory Licensing (or exempted by the relevant sections of the Housing Act 2004), with the exception of premises which comply with an approved Codes of Practice.

Further, with regard to HMO's that meet the definition contained in section 257 of the same Act, this Designation shall not apply except in the case of those that are mainly or wholly tenanted, including those with resident landlords, or where a significant proportion of owner occupied flats have been let by the owners.

The Council may be contacted at

Civic Centre
The Water Gardens
Harlow CM20 1WG

Tel. 01279 446655 email contact@harlow.gov.uk

Where the designation may be inspected; and where applications for licences and general advice may be obtained.

Any landlord, person managing or tenant within the designated area is advised to seek advice from the Council on whether their property is affected by the designation

Failure to license an HMO is a criminal offence for which an owner can be prosecuted and can be fined up to £20,000. In the Council can in certain cases make a Management Order and take over the management of the property. The owner will not have access to the property and the rent will be collected by the Council. Where owners have been prosecuted tenants can claim back any rent they have paid to the landlord whilst the property was not licensed.

Vengeance is a whipping of Wapping

East Men's Hockey League
Division Six South West
Harlow 3
Wapping VII 1

CONFIDENCE is booming at Harlow after they gained revenge for their 7-3 drubbing at Wapping earlier in the season in emphatic style.

The score was goalless at half-time, but it didn't take Harlow too long in the second half to take the lead following a cheeky lob over the onrushing goalkeeper from substitute Benn Hagger.

The second goal was scored by Solomon Castillo as he finished off some superb team play from Harlow, which saw defence turned into a lethal attack with some lovely passing.

The third goal came after the Wapping keeper wiped out Castillo and saw Rhys Mace score the resulting penalty flick.

Wapping scored a consolation goal late on, but was only kept to the one thanks to some determined defending and some excellent goalkeeping from the inspired Adam Johnson.

Mace explained: "We were expecting a strong attack from the away side, but this was not the case as we enjoyed a good amount of possession."

The win leaves Harlow in sixth place, and they travel to third-placed Witham on Saturday, hoping to build on the momentum of this victory.

HARLOW: A. Johnson, Cox, Adams, Greenall, K. Johnson, Mace, Krzowska, Munro, Gorringer, Boughtwood, Ottley. Subs: Hagger, Castillo.

■ HARLOW Ladies remain in ninth place in the Premier Division of the Essex Women's Hockey League.

They lost 2-1 at home to fifth-placed Phoenix on Saturday.

Running

Essex champ Sidnie ranked third in UK

ESSEX champion Sidnie Ward has moved up to number three in the UK rankings after stepping up to the U15 age group.

The Burnt Mill School pupil returned to the scene of his 800m county success at the Lee Valley Athletics Centre to claim a further victory at an indoor open event.

Sidnie (12), after only taking up running four months ago, has stepped up an age group to U15s on the advice of his coach at Woodford Green with Essex Ladies Athletic Club.

He won his 800m race again with a strong last 200m in 32 seconds to win in 2min 22.6sec, a personal best (PB) and a time that ranks him number one in England and number three in the UK.

Previously, Sidnie was sixth in the Harlow parkrun in 20:47 from 140 competitors.

His Burnt Mill School mate Kyesha Robinson (13), also a county champion, ran the 300m in 44.05 in the U15 girls category at the meet in North London.

She triumphed ahead of 14 competitors. This places her tenth in the UK U15 rankings.

In the same race, 12-year-old Rosie Bennett, also a Burnt Mill student, was fifth in 49.2, just outside her PB.

PRESSURE MOUNTS: Harlow's second-half dominance takes a grip on Saturday's match at Theobalds Lane. (Below), scorer Billy Jones

Harlow Tn 2

HAWKS boss Danny Chapman was delighted with his side's clean sheet as they reignited their Ryman North title bid with victory at close neighbours Cheshunt, writes Tom Nancarrow.

Saturday's 2-0 win was Harlow Town's first in five games.

Chapman was positively drooling over his side's defensive display and was thrilled that his side were able to keep the door shut on Cheshunt.

"It is as nice to keep a clean sheet as it is to score a goal. If you look at that back four that played today it is the same back four that played at Sudbury away, I thought that was the strongest we've looked in that area all season."

A superb second-half display from the Hawks, with two goals in ten minutes won the match against the Ambers, managed by former Harlow boss Glen Alzapiedi.

The match was far tighter than the reverse fixture at The Harlow Arena that saw the Hawks win 5-1 against eight men.

Billy Jones had a hand in both goals, first teeing up talisman Alex Read before crashing a shot into the back of the net.

Harlow displayed their title credentials in the fifth minute when Read turned well on the halfway line and played a delightful pass to Shane Stamp whose shot forced keeper Richard Heywood into making a somewhat unconvincing save.

Cheshunt, who were without a league win since New Year's Day, went close through striker Adam Bolle.

The Ambers impressed during a first half which lacked fizz.

blood in the 29th minute by unleashing a fierce strike which stung the fingertips of Harlow's new keeper Andrew Walker.

The visitors came out for the second half with the bit between their teeth.

Cheshunt were caught napping at the back by the alert Jones who intercepted a poor pass and immediately opted to chip the stranded Ambers keeper and, after a goal-mouth scramble, the ball fell to Read to turn in his 38th goal of the campaign.

Harlow killed the game off in the 55th minute. Junior Dadson drove a low cross into the feet of the lively Jones who turned on a sixpence just inside the penalty area and fired his shot into the bottom left corner.

The scoreline could have been worse for Cheshunt. Hawks captain David Cowley's perfectly weighted through-ball landed at the outstretched boot of Dadson. However, his shot was well held by Heywood.

Extravagant

It was not until the 75th minute that Cheshunt had an attempt on goal. Lewis Payne tried an extravagant half volley from 35 yards which flew over.

Dadson was denied by Heywood as Cheshunt kept the score down.

Chapman added: "I thought Mitch Hahn dictated the play and was too strong for us [in the first half].

"In the second half Billy [Jones] dealt with him a lot better but I just thought by bringing on Leon [Antoine] with the physical presence he has got, I think that's what we needed to do."

HARLOW TN: Walker, Pope, Eadie, Urquhart, Goodhind, Simms, Dadson (Appiah 85) Cowley, Read, Jones (Antoine 66), Stamp (Martin 80).

In brief

It's 'princess' Andy as pink tutu proves a hit in Orlando

ANDY KINNEY certainly knows how to dress up for a race – he adorned a pink tutu for two events in Orlando, Florida.

The Harlow Running Club member ran the Disney Princess 10K in 1hr 04min 59sec, taking 1515th out of 10989 finishers.

On Sunday, Kinney was running again, to complete the Disney Princess Half Marathon in 2:28:01, finishing in 4029th out of 20182 finishers.

"Andy completed the two races on Saturday and Sunday wearing a bright pink tutu," running club chairman Colin Moody smiled.

Closer to home, Harlow's Darren Coates travelled to Aylsham in Norfolk to take on the challenge of the Poppyline Winter Ultra Race over a gruelling distance of 50 miles.

He completed it in a brilliant time of 9hr 28min on Saturday.

Club runners competed in a variety of 5K parkruns.

The most impressive performance came at Harlow, where Alan Wellbelove (37th of 122) improved his personal best (PB) time for the distance by 17 seconds in 27:39.

Other finishers at Harlow were: Jim Bates 24:53 (20th), Jane Evans 28:50 (39th), Louise Coates 28:16 (40th) and Pushpa Mistry 30:59 (58th).

At the Gunpowder parkrun in Waltham Abbey, the first Harlow runner home was Jamie Jephcott in 18:26, closely followed in second by his son Daniel (19:32), and then Debbie Barry 25:13 (30th of 83 finishers).

At Chelmsford, Janice Page recorded 25:02 (169th of 406 finishers) and Dave Page 26:04 (198th).

Making her debut for the club at the half marathon distance, Debbie Cooper raced at Brighton. She finished in a very promising 2:09:17 for 5513th out of 7675.

Derby delight

ALEMITE Athletic will be looking to add to their record-breaking four Essex Saturday Junior Cup titles after being handed a home draw against Summers in the semi-finals on March 14.

Great Baddow will face Hutton Reserves or Southend Collegians in the other semi.

DARTS: Harlow Premier Darts League leaders Servo Link won the first leg of their match against Tye Green Pirates – but then lost the next five legs.

They ended up losing the match 5-3. Steve Slack hit a 180 for Link and Micc Verrells struck 180 for Pirates. Keith Arber notched a 180 for White Admiral in their 8-0 win over Parlington Social. With the help of a 180 from Damian Green, Green Link notched their second win of the season, beating Colt Hatch 6-2.

Other results: Golden Swift 5, Parlington Lions 3; Sawbridgeworth Brewery 6 (Rob Winslow 180), Moot House 2.

TEN PIN BOWLING: A team of 26 bowlers from the Harlow Senior Rollers league played their first match of the year.

They took on the Senior Rollers team at City Limits Bowl in Collier Row, Romford. This was the third match between the two teams in the last two years.

The first two had been even but the Harlow team were looking to avenge defeat in the last of these three matches.

The match was played using a trios format over three games. Despite 17 of the Harlow bowlers bowling above their league average the team suffered a further defeat, losing the match 10051 pins to 11293 pins.

However, the men's and women's high game trophies were both won by Harlow bowlers, Chris Precious bowling 202 and Jean Taylor 194.

Ladies still upbeat despite loss in title crunch match

HARLOW'S title dream was literally hit for six by neighbours Chelmsford, but promotion is still a strong possibility for Sarah Donaghey's side.

The team remain top of Division Four in the Essex

Women's Hockey League, but Chelmsford's fifth team cut the gap to two points after their 6-2 victory at Leventhorpe on Saturday.

Chelmsford have two games in hand on Harlow.

After Chelmsford took an early

2-0 lead, the hosts halved the deficit when Tanishka Naidoo rifled a shot to the right of the keeper's right boot.

Naidoo smashed in a rebound to make it 2-2 at the break.

However, Harlow, backed by a sizeable crowd, conceded four goals in the second half as Chelmsford showed their clinical edge.

Donaghey said: "As their captain I am so proud of their performance today. I don't mind losing when I know we all played to our absolute best."

Injuries costly as Rams lose unbeaten run

INJURIES to key players hit the Rams as they suffered a 32-10 defeat to Cantabrigians, costing them their six-match unbeaten run in RFU London Division Three North East.

For the first five minutes both teams tested each other out with high kicks in a swirling wind.

Harlow conceded a line-out ten metres from their line. From a clean catch, Cantabs set up a driving maul and scored the game's first try through Pete Collins which Dave Reed converted.

A series of injuries disrupted Harlow's pattern of play, with wing Will Grimley suffering a shoulder injury, forward Peter Frost a hand injury and scrum-half Charlie Woodington a deep cut in his mouth which required stitches at hospital.

After 35 minutes Harlow were awarded a penalty which fly-half Dan Smith calmly slotted over to make it 7-3.

The hosts extended their lead with a Reed penalty.

On the stroke of half-time Ryan McGlone, who had taken over the scrum-half position from the injured Woodington, found space behind the Harlow pack and broke through from five metres, dodging tackles and placing the ball under the posts.

Smith converted to tie the game at 10-10.

In first-half stoppage time Grimley picked up and ran from the Harlow 22m, but was controversially taken out by a high tackle. The visitors complained to the referee, who deemed this as dissent and awarded a penalty to Cantabs, which Reed slotted over for a 13-10 half-time lead.

Harlow did not start the second half well and conceded two tries in the first quarter of an hour.

Nick Denham was released down the right before passing to Jon Perks, who broke the first tackle before off-loading to Josh Schmidt to score under the posts, with Reed adding the extras.

A searing break from Sammy Kididromo down the middle of the pitch ended in David Bloxson going over in the corner.

When Harlow cleared their lines straight to Bloxson, he ran past three players before putting in James to go over in a corner to complete the 32-10 win with a bonus point fourth try.

Skipper Shaun Roberts remains positive.

The team have won ten and drawn one of their 17 matches this term, while the average age of the side has been dramatically lowered this season.

"We have a young backbone. Will Grimley is the only one who is 30. I'm 28 at weekends," Roberts quipped.

"I'm the oldest player in our pack. The props go on like goalkeepers [in football]. We have got an older pack but it is still not over the hill."

On Saturday, Harlow are at home to Beccles looking for revenge against a team who beat them in Suffolk earlier in the season. The game kicks off at 2.30 and admission is free.

HARLOW: Ephgrave, Mallia, Frost, Twiner, Unwin, Roberts, 7, Hawkins, Claridge, Woodington, Smith, Grimley, Brown, Fricker, Whitby, McGlone. Replacements (all used): Cunningham, Phillips, McFerran.

THE Harlow second team suffered a 27-18 defeat at Eton Manor at the weekend.

Danny Fitz and Werner Kotze bagged the tries for the Rams.

Chay Clark converted one, and slotted over two penalties.

Swimming

BUILDING on the momentum of their huge success at the Essex County Championships, Harlow Penguins took a relatively inexperienced group of 25 academy and junior squad members to a meeting at Barnet Copthall on Sunday.

Nine of the swimmers: Finnegan Tamplin, Lucy Parsons, Ella Dalley, Katarzyna Puklo, Ethan Ryan, Sophie Rudge, Ella Franklin, Kasey Bradley, Amelie Harris, were making their competitive debuts and all produced outstanding performances against swimmers from two of the biggest clubs in the London region, Barnet Copthall and Camden Swiss Cottage.

Medal performances were always going to be hard to produce but Penguins' most pleasing performances came from the club's youngest swimmers, which bodes well for the future.

Phoebe White produced a magnificent two-second reduction in her best time for the 50m butterfly to 42.37sec and gained second place in the 10/U event.

She followed this up with a really controlled swim in the slightly more daunting 100m butterfly to claim a bronze medal in a time of 1min 43.37sec, a great achievement for her first swim at the distance.

Ben Stringer was the club's other dual medallist, again in the youngest 10/U age group, he claimed third places in the 50m breaststroke in a personal best (PB) time of 51.22 and followed this up with a further bronze medal in the 100m freestyle (1:22.84).

Ben's classmate at Churchgate School, Tyler Jackson, also claimed a bronze medal in the 11 year 100m breaststroke, his time of 1:44.60 was a PB.

Churchgate have a strong swimming contingent at Penguins, with Ethan Ryan, Sophie Rudge and Alex Knight all competing at Barnet.

Penguins' other medallist was Lily Taylor who was third in the 11/U 50m freestyle, her time of 34.13 was just outside the PB she set at the recent county championships.

Club head coach Martin Stringer said: "Penguins used this as a development meet to give a wide range of swimmers the opportunity to compete.

"With nine debutants and the club's most junior swimmers competing it was a resounding success and we look forward to seeing the swimmers' improvement in the future."

Leopards tease out the win and climb to third

Tees Valley's late rally in vain against superior hosts

ESSEX Leopards moved up to third place in the English Basketball League Division One table with a comfortable 77-69 victory against Tees Valley Mohawks on Saturday.

The scoreline flattered the visitors with Leopards holding a 74-47 lead with 6min 32sec remaining before they took their foot off the gas and allowed the visitors to close out the game on a 22-3 run.

Dave Ajumobi and Will Ashby led the hosts' scoring with 15 points apiece, with the former adding 14 rebounds. Albert Margai finished with 12 points, with Courtney van Beest adding nine points.

In a tight first half, Leopards turned a 16-15 opening-period advantage into a 35-33 lead going into the locker room.

But a 16-2 third-period run from the home side saw them blow the game open as they took a 64-47 lead into the final break. With Matic Zupanc and Mark Denchfield burying three-pointers in a

Basketball

10-0 run to open the fourth quarter, the game was effectively over despite Mohawks' late surge.

Leopards will look to complete a perfect season at Harlow Leisurezone on Saturday when they host Hemel Storm, tip-off 7.30pm.

All four of the Big Cats' home games in March are at the Brentwood Centre, and Robert Youngblood's team will aim to make it an eighth straight victory at Harlow when they face a Storm side who are struggling against relegation.

Having finished third in the table last season, they are now third from bottom with a 5-12 record and face a tough run-in, as they face all of the top three during the final weeks of the campaign.

The Big Cats have already travelled to Hertfordshire twice this season, winning 85-70 in November's National Trophy game before picking up an 85-71 league win in January.

The game will see Leopards against former captain Carl Josey, while ex-coach Jon Burnell is now assistant coach at Hemel.

Preparation

Youngblood's side are also in action on Sunday at Bradford Dragons and they will set off immediately after the Hemel game in preparation for the match.

After being tipped to do well this season, the Yorkshire side have had a surprisingly poor season and are ninth in the table with a 6-11 record.

The game at the Brentwood Centre saw Leopards win a thriller 62-60 as late scores from Margai and Ajumobi sealed the victory.

Leopards' two opponents this coming weekend met each other in Hemel on Saturday, with Dragons running out 104-94 winners.

CRANKING UP TITLE PRESSURE

Hawks boss puts the strain on rivals

by Tom Nancarrow

star-sport@hertsessexnews.co.uk

THE title race is heading towards the final few furlongs, and Hawks boss Danny Chapman says the pressure is now reaching boiling point.

Needham Market missed a chance to go back on top of Ryman North when their match at Brentwood Town was called off on Tuesday due to a wet pitch.

Harlow Town picked up their first win in five games on Saturday when they toppled Cheshunt 2-0 at Theobalds Lane.

The Hawks remain top by a single point, with Needham's long-standing two games in hand hanging over both sides like a sword of Damocles.

Chapman (pictured left) knows all his side can do is keep winning their games.

He said: "I said before the [Cheshunt] game that these last five fixtures we've had are the hardest block of five, because we work in blocks of five and that is the hardest all season.

"To come out of it at the other end, still top of the league by a point, is fantastic. Forget Needham and what Needham have done because I'm not interested.

"As every game goes by there is more pressure so [beating Cheshunt] is a massive win."

The drama now moves to Saturday when Harlow host fourth-from-bottom Barkingside, while their Suffolk rivals visit fifth-from-bottom Redbridge.

Goals from Alex Read and Billy Jones secured the points at Cheshunt, but Harlow required a stern half-time team talk from Chapman, when the Hawks manager questioned their desire to be champions.

"I just told them the truth really, that we weren't working hard enough, we weren't quick enough," he said.

Labourled

"Everything was a bit labourled, too laid back and I said 'you need to look at yourselves now and decide do you want to win the league or not? Because the only man you are letting down is the man sitting to the left and right of you'," Chapman revealed.

"It was a fantastic reaction and they know as a group and as individuals that the first half wasn't good enough and to be able to react like they did at the start of the second half is a trait of a good side.

"It was a game of two halves, first half we were poor and they dominated us in every sense. We told people a few home truths at half-time and the biggest positive from the first half is that we came in 0-0.

"We came out for the second half and it was the other way around.

"I don't remember them [Cheshunt] having a shot in the second half if I am being honest and we could have ended up winning by three or four so it was a game of two halves massively."

After going four games without a victory, Chapman will hope his side can build on this result on Saturday.

Harlow have ten games remaining, and the Hawks boss wants to end February on a high ahead of some tricky matches in March.

These include a trip to Dereham Town, who beat Harlow in this fixture last season, and a home match against Brightlingsea Regent, who defeated Needham Market earlier this month.

Jones, who lives on the Church Langley estate in Harlow, impressed against the Ambers with a goal and an assist, but Chapman substituted him in the 66th minute.

The Harlow manager said: "He's barely played because he has been suspended for three matches. I thought at that time on a boggy, heavy pitch he looked a little tired."

Winger Jared Small (thigh) is doubtful for Saturday's home match against Barkingside.

Keeper Ed Thompson (knee) is close to a return.

Rams need seconds' help to get better

SCRUM-half and director of rugby Lee Harron was able to sit back and watch the Rams – rather than play – but his side met their match at Cantabrigians.

The Rams' six-match unbeaten run came to an end.

The Cambridge side will now battle it out with West Norfolk for the runner-up spot, and a place in the London Division Three North East play-offs this season.

However, there has been plenty of encouraging signs at Ram Gorse this season, but 41-year-old Harron (pictured above) is demanding more from the younger players in the second team, if Harlow are to make the step up to the next level.

Harlow had held their hosts to 10-10 at the break, but with injuries to three key players, Cantabs' clinical edge and power told in the second period.

Having played against Sudbury 12 days ago – when Harlow became the first team this season to take a point off the Suffolk side – Harron is looking for more commitment from the second team's players.

Pressure

He said: "We need those boys in the second team to train and keep this pressure on this group of boys that are here at the minute.

"There's ample boys that are good enough to come in and play in the first team, but they need to train.

"That causes a few issues when they are not training. The majority of the firsts are training but it is just the seconds that are not.

"They will get their chances if they come to training and put the pressure on."

Despite Saturday's blip, Harron has been delighted with the progress of the first team since early December.

"The last seven or eight weeks they have worked very hard training wise," he said.

"We are starting to get a lot of boys at [first team] training which is good. There is an awful lot of competition for places. We are also starting to get a few boys back from injury."
